

LOOKS BAD FOR FURNISH Marion County Against Him—Scott's Ambition.

SALEM, April 17.—No little interest is being manifested in Salem over the coming campaign, and Republicans and, in fact, members of all parties are eagerly discussing the situation. It is generally regarded as a certainty here that should the dominant faction of the Republicans persist in their attempt to utterly ignore the claims of those over whom they have for the time being gained the ascendancy, the result may be that not only will Furnish be defeated—a contingency which many regard as being already certain—but that the rank and file of the party with whom Gear, Moody and Simon are regarded as still having great influence, may be rendered sufficiently sore to defeat most of the state ticket.

In this connection it is being pointed out that at the recent convention in Portland Mr. Simon alone had 48 per cent of the entire vote of the assembly, and, say these prophets, when the strength of Moody and of Gear outside of this faction is added thereto, it means the defeat of any person obnoxious to their followers.

The Marion County calculators say that it is useless to deny that a split, and a most serious one, exists in the ranks of the party throughout the state, and nowhere is it more serious than here. No one here who is at all familiar with state politics doubts for one instant that the reason Gear was turned down for the Governorship was because of the ambition of Harvey Scott to secure the domination of the Republican party that he could dictate his own election as United States Senator. He has defeated his own ends and in so doing may also have wrecked the cause of the whole party.

Furnish is certainly beaten in Marion County already. His candidacy is generally regarded as a mere matter of money, and an interesting instance of the way in which he is regarded is the fact that at his visit to Salem at the end of this week no attempt is to be made to receive him in any public manner whatever. He will be met only by a committee of his faction, it is apparent, not being deemed advisable at this time to further provoke the hostility of the Gear Republicans, who so largely predominate, and who are already in the condition where another straw might precipitate a fierce fight.

Among the Democrats the impending conflict of course creates some satisfaction. They consider that Chamberlain for Governor is a certainty, and consequently are jubilant. In the matter of county officers, they are not so confident, but claim to have strong hopes of securing some of the seats.

The Prohibitionists and the Socialists, of course, have no hopes of electing their candidates, but will bring every possible adherent to the polls as an expression of the opinions of their parties.

RETURNS FROM ALASKA.

Charles Smith, formerly a deputy street superintendent here, has returned from Crevice City, where he had been for the past two years. Mr. Smith met with good success while away, and will likely go back. He brought two fine Alaskan dogs. They are broken to the sled and are faithful workers. The electric street cars are new to them and cause them considerable fright. They are large, grayish looking animals and look fierce, although they are said to be harmless.

ODD FELLOW DEAD.

SPRINGFIELD, April 17.—James Miller, Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Illinois Odd Fellows, died this morning of congestion of the brain.

REPUBLICAN HEADQUARTERS

Chairman Mathews Outlining a Plan of Campaign.

The Republican State Central Committee began to do business at their elegant and commodious headquarters in the Benson building on Morrison street this morning. The rooms are admirably located and handsomely fitted and furnished.

The suite contains seven rooms, all of which are carpeted and furnished with good desks and luxuriant chairs. One reception room will be for the personal use of Mr. Furnish and the other candidates on the state ticket. Two rooms have been set aside for the use of the press agent who will arrive in the city from Southern Oregon in a few days. The State Secretary has a suite of rooms. There has been ample provision made for stenographers and typewriters and from all indications there will soon be a large force at work.

Chairman Walter F. Mathews and Secretary H. C. Smith were kept very busy this morning doing the preliminary work of opening the campaign and talking with prominent Republicans who dropped in to look at the new headquarters. Among the prominent callers today were two gentlemen who are prominent candidates for the United States Senate, H. W. Scott and C. W. Fulton.

"It is rather too early yet to say just what we are going to do," said Mr. Mathews this morning, "except that we are getting all the authentic information that we can from the different counties in the state; inquiring into their particular needs and in a general way blocking out the line of campaign. We are beginning to map out the work of the speakers and doing all the general preliminary work that we can. As there are several counties that have yet made no nominations of candidates, it will be impossible for some time to outline any very definite plans of campaign. We certainly intend to put up a strong and aggressive fight and of course we expect to win.

"The active canvass will begin early in May. We suppose that the Democrats will begin their campaign about the same time, but we shall conduct our campaign without any reference to the action of the opposition."

RECENT DEATHS

Henry Lord Moody, father of Congressman Moody, the new Secretary of the Navy, is dead at Haverhill, Mass., aged 81.

Abraham Fisher, originator of many of the present forms of the valentine, is dead at his home in Germantown, a suburb of Philadelphia, aged 90.

Aurelian Scholl, the well-known author, journalist and duelist, is dead in Paris, as the result of an operation. He was born at Bordeaux, July 13, 1832, and was best known as the editor of the Echo de Paris.

Julio Jose Marquis de Apestequia, a Spanish grandee, and ex-leader of the Conservative party in Cuba, is dead at his home in New York, after a lingering illness. Prior to the Spanish-American war he was one of the central figures in the affairs of Cuba, and it was largely through his efforts that General Weyler was recalled.

NOW FREE Chinese Doctor Released by the Grand Jury.

Police Have No Clue to Mrs. Heung's Murderer.

Dr. Lee Po Tei, the Chinaman held for the murder of Mrs. Lin Heung, in this city April 1, was discharged by State Circuit Judge Sears this morning, upon the report of the grand jury.

Deputy District Attorney Spencer stated that after a thorough examination of a number of witnesses no incriminating evidence could be found against the accused Chinaman. The testimony of one of the witnesses corroborated Lee Po Tei's statement made to the officers at the time of the arrest, relative to the description of the Chinaman he saw make a hurried exit from the quarters of the murdered woman when the discovery of the fire first brought the crime to notice.

Lee said that he saw a short, thick Chinaman, with a fur-trimmed coat collar, run out of the house and disappear down the street. This description tallies almost exactly with that given by one of the witnesses examined by the grand jury.

It therefore looks like Dr. Lee Po Tei's first statement of the mystery is true: That he heard a noise as if some one was chopping wood in the rear of the apartments occupied by the woman, started to investigate, and attempted to extinguish the flames.

The officers are yet unable to account for the fact that Lee Po Tei's coat sleeves were not burned, although his hands were. He says he did not change his garments before the police took him into custody from in front of the burning building. It is thought by some that the doctor knows who the Chinaman was that he saw coming out of the house, but if he does he will not make known the secret.

STOREY AND HIS TROUBLES Ex-Mayor's Dispute With an Attorney.

W. A. Storey, ex-Mayor and Republican candidate for Sheriff, had a very uncomfortable half-hour in the Justice Court this morning. He dropped in while Lou Wagner and his friends were talking over Wagner's chances for constable on the Citizens' ticket, and Storey asked the Clerk what it would cost him to settle a portion of a judgment obtained against him by the Ames Mercantile Agency about six months ago.

Mr. Storey was told that the attorney for the agency would have to be present to negotiate the matter. E. M. Simon, attorney for the mercantile agency, was then summoned by telephone and when he arrived the politician saluted him as an old friend, but before the business between the two was concluded bystanders were wondering when it would be time to cut in and prevent a personal encounter.

Mr. Storey led off with the statement that at the time the judgment was taken against him he was unable but that he wanted to pay the account all the time.

"Well, why didn't you do it when I sent one of our men down at your wood-yard then?" asked Mr. Simonton.

"Because he was 'sassy' and seemed to own the whole—cheese down there."

"Well, why did you not answer my personal letter asking you to call at my office and make some arrangements?"

"At that time I was down the river carrying logs on my shoulders to get hold of a piece of money."

Such conversation was indulged in for a time, both men being at fever heat, when finally Storey said:

"Now you look here. I may be in a position some time when you will want my help."

The Ames Mercantile Agency makes a specialty of collecting good and bad bills and consequently has a great deal of business in the way of attachments, etc., with the Sheriff's and Constable's office.

Simonton took the remark of Storey in the nature of a threat and hotly retorted:

"Oh, that's all right, old man, you haven't got their yet by a long shot. I do business at the Sheriff's office and will be doing so long after you have made up your mind to forget you was ever a candidate."

The matter ended by Mr. Storey paying a portion of the judgment and promising more.

LEGISLATORS Democratic Committee will Name Them Tonight.

The Democratic Legislative Committee which was appointed last night by the Democratic caucus to make up a slate of six Representatives and a State Senator will meet tonight at the Democratic headquarters and will formulate the ticket.

While these nominations will have to be ratified by the convention or by a caucus of the delegates, there is little prospect of the slate as presented being changed. It is impossible to give the names of the candidates today, as there has been no formal discussion of candidates yet, but it is projected that the slate will be about as follows:

State Senator—Robert Livingstone. Representatives—M. G. Munley, Frank Heitemper, Henry Fleckenstein, J. A. Bushman, P. H. Curtis, A. F. Fiegel.

Priming in Public.

There has at last materialized the woman who at last vulgarly matches the man who combs his mustache in public. Every one expects that when a woman removes her hat she will pat her hair a little. That is proper feminine vanity which makes her want to look as well as she can. But when it goes beyond that, to making a toilet, spending two or three minutes in the operation of drawing a sidecomb vigorously over and over again through a pompadour, front, side and back, that is an altogether different thing which can not be too strongly condemned. It is too much like those members of the streets in public places, and fixing their nails in public places, and surveying themselves in the small mirrors and show windows. But one expects a woman to have too much innate refinement to do likewise. Those mysteries of the toilet that are a part of the feminine makeup are not to be gone through with while a gazing populace looks on. It detracts from her charm and makes her a thing of pins and practicalities, which effectually dispels illusion. It isn't nice, not to mention well-bred. It jars on sensibilities that think of lovely woman born full panoplied with things of fascination, not put on 'mid writhings, holding of breath and reaching of arms.

Tips on the Mode.

Skirts and entire garments of accordion plaited silk are among the spring novelties. An imported fan for evening use is made of peacock's feathers, arranged lengthwise on the sticks to resemble the spread tail when the fan is opened. White ornaments for hats are large and worked out in small pearls. A simple and popular effect is that of a half ball incrustated with tiny pearls and surmounted by a large one.

Spangled gowns continue popular for reception and dinner wear. One recently worn at a reception was so thoroughly covered with silver spangles as to have the appearance of solid metal. One of the most beautiful chateaufort bags to wear with a gray costume is of pale gray satin, with trimmings of old reponse silver. A fleur de lis surrounded by stars and a fringe edge is worked on the outside in cut steel beads.

Many women are showing a preference for ribbon bouquets. These come in medium size bunches, each tiny loop of ribbon being twisted to form a petal of a forget-me-not, violet, Jack rose or other blossom. The mingling of appropriate green foliage adds much to the illusion.

For Porch and Den.

A good filling for pillows designed for porch use is made by cutting excelsior fine. Chicken feathers, mixed with small bits of cotton, make a good filling for sofa pillows. The cotton keeps the feathers from packing. The silky substance found in the pod of the milkweed also makes an excellent filling for these cushions. This may be kept light and

VISITORS' GUIDE To Portland and Vicinity

Among the principal places of interest in and about Portland are the following: The City Park—Immediately west of the heart of the city, on the high hills. Commands a fine view of the river and city, has beautiful walks and drives, flower beds, shade trees and a good collection of animals and birds. Reached by the Washington-street or Fifth-street cars direct, or by "M" cars on Morrison street.

Riverside Cemetery.—Four miles south. Attractive car ride and beautiful scenery along the river, through the woods, Lake Second or Third-street car lines south-bound.

Portland Heights.—Great elevation, exciting car ride on cable car, extensive view of the city and Willamette and Columbia rivers. Take Fifth-street cars, transferring to cable.

Mount Tabor.—Four miles east; lovely car ride through suburbs and fields, fine view of snow peaks, river and country. Take City & Suburban cars at Third and Morrison, or Hawthorne line at First and Alder.

Willamette Heights.—An elevated and elegant residence section of the city on the northwest, against the heights in the rear of the city. Take Twenty-third and Washington-street cars.

Oregon City and Willamette Falls and the large factories and mills; 12 miles south; time, one hour. Take boats or East Side Railway.

Vancouver City and Barracks.—Beautiful suburban ride, ferry across Columbia—here a mile wide. Delightful grounds and drives in the military enclosure. Take Vancouver cars, corner First and Washington streets.

City Hall Building, costing $500,000. Beautiful in architectural design, and magnificent in all its appointments. Contains very fine museum.

Portland Library Building, costing $150,000, and containing one of the finest art galleries on the Pacific Coast.

Light lumber mills.—North Pacific Lumber Company, Eastern Lumber Company, Western Lumber Company and Inman, Poulsen & Co. All on Willamette River. Reached by nearly any street-car line.

FURTHER TESTIMONY BY MR. MORGAN

"I believe," said the attorney, "that you organized the great P. and S. W. combination?"

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Will you please explain how it was done?"

"Oh, I've forgotten. It was a matter involving only a dozen millions or so. You can't expect me to keep these trifles in my head."

"And you arranged the consolidation of the G. X. & M. and the K. F. lines, didn't you?"

"Let me see. Yes, since you mention it, I seem to remember that I did."

"The capital involved in this transaction was $200,000,000, I believe?"

"Was it?"

"Didn't you know that it was?"

"Heavens, no! Do you remember how much you paid for your baby's undershirt two years ago last January? How can you expect me to go on remembering these picaresque affairs of every-day life?"

"Will you please give the court a definition of the word 'trust' as it is applied to industrial combinations?"

"A trust is a company formed by a few of the boys to run things and let the people trust in them to do it right or move on."—Denver Telegraph.

Finis.

The curtain of the Night is drawn. The shadows deepen on the western sky. The Stars have told me that the hour has come. To say farewell to Life. Fair Life farewell!

Into thine arms I came with timid cry; I leave thee with no wall upon my lips. Thine arms once held me, now I grasp thy hands. As of a friend whom I have loved full well. I know not of the past from which I came. Thy wisdom never could tell me aught of that.

I go I know not where, yet with all hope. For Thou hast told me of a new Life there. Did some kind voice direct me to Thee, that in my feeble state I quite forgot? And in another shall Thy face, too. Fade from remembrance when a new Life comes.

Men of my race, of sturdy limb and strong, Haystack the way that I am bound to go. And yet no answering voice has come to me. From that great Silence that we fain would know. So go I now to join the countless throng; Not heedlessly, but with this hope divine; That Thou hast power to pass me on to God.

Fare thee, my hands slip out of Thine. Lewis E. MacBryne in the Household.

HOW TO MANAGE HUSBANDS

Maxine Elliott's Press Agent Working Overtime.

During her recent engagement in Louisville Maxine Elliott told how she had "reformed" Nat Goodwin. The beautiful Maxine's confidence in her reforming powers was refreshing in view of the report that Nat's most stellar engagement here was not on the boards at Miesley's theater, but in bucking the tiger at his favorite game of faro. After he left it was reported that his visit to Louisville had cost him $18,000.

But regardless of results, the reforming process of the beautiful Maxine is interesting.

"Husbands," said Miss Elliott, judiciously, "are like colds. You never can tell when you are going to catch one."

"And then?"

"Well, then, they are like a pocket in a fashionable frock—you never can tell where you are going to find it."

"Is it wise to look?"

"It depends upon what he is doing," said she.

"Then the way to manage husbands is—"

"Kindly omit the plural."

"I was speaking generally."

"Well, I haven't a general experience."

"But—"

"My personal one is at your disposal."

"Well, how did you reform your husband?"

"Manage is a much nicer word."

"But—"

"Well, I found there was a time for
