AS VIEWED ABROAD.

The Salem Journal Gives the Register's "Resources" a Lick.

The Register of this morning devotes several columns of space to an effort to convince its readers that taxes due the county, but much of which will not be collected before the fall and winter months, are "resources" to be figured against the $118,000 indebtedness on which Lane county is paying interest. The Salem Journal has this criticism that is exactly in point: A Lane county paper admits that the outstanding warrants in that county are $114,695.98, but points with pride to the alleged fact that the county has $66,739.33 "resources" applicable to the payment of the same. Holding that amount of "resources," while the old warrants are drawing eight per cent interest, is an indictment.

POLITICS THAT PAYS.

Two years ago our neighbor on the south, Douglas county, elected Union officials. That it has been for the best interests of the people is shown by the following presentation of facts published in the Roseburg Review of April 23:

The semi-annual report of the county officers printed in today's Review is interesting in at least one respect. On July 1st, 1898, when the Union officials took their seats, the county debt was $99,578.91, according to the official figures of the retiring officials; now, after only twenty-one months, it is $13,578.91 less. This excellent showing is made notwithstanding the fact that the court house has been rebuilt and refurbished at a cost exceeding the insurance upon the burned building by several thousand dollars, and the tax levy decreased for the current year by some $20,000, thus giving the people of the county some of the substantial and gratifying fruits of economical government. Had the assessment valuation been as high as in former years the actual county debt in this present statement would have shown further corresponding decrease. This condition of the county's finances is evidence that politics sometimes pays the people who engage in it. In this instance it has certainly paid the taxpayers of Douglas county to elect the present Union officials—men who made the right kind of pledges and kept them faithfully. In this connection it might not be out of place to emphasize the fact that a Union legislature would, also, save the people much money. Notwithstanding the reduced assessment valuation Douglas county pays this year $25,563.45 into the state treasury because of the extravagance of the Republican legislature. If this state tax was reduced one half, as it might be if proper economy was observed in appropriating money, our county officials could easily wipe out our interest-bearing debt in a few years without levying any additional taxes.

A THIRTY-SIX CENT MAN.

Had the Lane county Republican convention known that J. L.

"A Bright Little Boy"

Would be sure of a welcome in almost any home. But what a welcome he would have in a home where the large number of children had been extinguished. What a welcome this particular "bright little boy" did have in such a home, may be judged by the closing paragraphs of his mother's letter, given below. There is no room for the whole letter, which recounts a story of fifteen years of suffering and a perfect cure by the use of "three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and some of the 'Pellets.'"

In many instances childlessness is the result of conditions which are curable. It has often happened that when "Favorite Prescription" has cured a woman of female weakness and the nervous condition attending it, her return to health is signalized by the birth of her first child. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well.

Taylor paid but THIRTY-SIX cents tax that gentleman would not have been nominated for commissioner. The convention was composed of representative men, and it was nothing but ignorance of the fact that made such a nomination possible.

Taking last year as a basis from which to make an estimate the commissioner to be elected in June will assist in handling about $300,000 for county purposes during his four years' term of office. The voters of Lane county will not elect a THIRTY-SIX cent taxpayer to handle their hundreds of thousands of dollars.

J. R. Hill, Citizens' candidate, pays $113 tax.

SENATORS DON'T LIKE THE PRECEDENT.

An honest expression of opinion from millionaire Clark of Montana, just refused admission to the United States senate, would be very interesting. He probably thinks that some of the senators got their places in about the same manner, only cheaper, and should not object to his companionship. Clark should recollect that he set too rapid a pace for his would-be colleagues. If he had spent a reasonable amount he might have been admitted. Senators do not wish to go home or election with such a precedent or expenses. Clark would send a million where the ordinary senator would hesitate to contribute ten thousand.

The Register recently stated that J. L. Taylor, Republican candidate for commissioner, would move to Eugene as soon as he was elected. J. R. Hill, the Citizens candidate, will remain on his farm, if elected. He is a taxpayer and will not become a county burden if successful at the polls.

Will the people of Lane county elect a man commissioner who only pays a tax of thirty-six cents? We think not.

Old Children

Many children look too old for their years. They go about with thin faces and sober manners not in keeping with robust childhood. If it's your boy or girl, give Scott's Emulsion. 'Twill fill out the hollow places, increase the weight, and bring a healthy color to the cheeks. The improvement continues long after they cease using the Emulsion. Get Scott's.

TOUR OF INSPECTION

Committee Views Sites for Proposed I. O. O. F. Home.

EUGENE A FAVORED PLACE.

Mr. W. T. Williamson, of Salem, T. F. Ryan, of Oregon City, and R. Scott, of Portland, were in Eugene yesterday making a tour of inspection for the grand lodge, I. O. O. F. These gentlemen were appointed a special committee to view and report on a site for the proposed home to be established at some point in the state by this lodge, and were in Eugene on this business. The contest for location of the home has virtually narrowed down to three places, Eugene, Portland and Roseburg, and the sites offered are being examined with a view to handing in a report of recommendation at the next session of the grand lodge, which meets at Astoria in May.

The site offered in this city consists of 33 acres, owned by R. F. Scott, of Creswell, lies near the University campus and just north of the home of Dr. I. D. Driver. This is one of the best locations which can be found in the entire valley. It is roomy enough for the needs of the home, is near enough the city to be convenient, and far enough out to be secluded. It has all the natural advantages which can attach to such a site, natural drainage, is high and dry and will afford an excellent view of all points of beauty and interest in the upper valley.

The committee expressed themselves as very much pleased with the site offered here and its environment, and in their tour of inspection they will find nothing better. The central location of Eugene, its equable climate, its natural advantages and all else combine to make this the favored place for the location of such a home, and the report of this committee, which is virtually decisive, will be awaited with interest.

The home to be established by the Odd Fellows will be on a scale commensurate with the needs of this popular order and in keeping with its financial condition and the pride with which it always makes modern advances. The GUARD is informed that the buildings and necessary outlay to be made at the opening of the home will exceed $50,000, which will be expended within the first two years, and that other buildings and improvements will be added as time moves on. This home will be for all Odd Fellows who desire to take advantage of its conveniences, for those unfortunate and who need assistance and for the care of orphans of members of the order who need the tender care which this fraternity so generously gives.

Eugene wants this home and feels assured as well that if the site in this city is selected the Odd Fellows of the state will have no occasion to regret the choice made.

A PIONEER INCIDENT.—At the meeting of the Native Daughters at Corvallis a lady present told the following: "Her own and the family of Joe Meek were neighbors in the old days. On the arrival of her father's family at The Dalles from the long trip across the plains, the first vegetables were secured from the settlers. Two great cabbage heads were bought, and after six months on dry food, the children were so ravenous for greens that they ate the cabbage heads before the latter could be cooked."

SHERIFF WITHERS INTERVIEWED.

Tells a Citizen Reporter all the Facts About the Henry Day Defalcation.

Weekly Citizen, successor to Broad-Joe, April 2. We asked Mr. Withers why he had not made some statement for publication regarding the Henry Day affair. Mr. Withers replied: "I have never felt it necessary to pay any attention to the numerous reports that Mr. Day's conduct as my deputy naturally gave rise to, believing that whatever blame his course might cause to attach to me, time would make all things right, so far as I was concerned.

"The report that Mr. Day's friends or any one else, save myself, ever put up a cent to make good his defalcation is utterly false, as any one interested may know by consulting the First National bank. I borrowed from that bank, with my father as surety, the amount necessary to replace what Day had taken, and I am paying off the debt just as fast as I am making it. When Day decamped I had no money, having bought land and paid for it with what my salary had brought me.

"No. No one has ever repaid me a cent of that money, nor do I expect or desire Mr. Day's friends or anyone else to do so. However, I may state that when Day ran away I was his security on a note for $150. I felt that Day's relations ought to pay this note under the circumstances, and wrote to Henry's brother, Rev. Frank Day, at Newberg, to that effect. Rev. Day did not even answer my letter, much less pay off the note."

"What have you to say, Mr. Withers, about not apprehending Mr. Day?" we asked him. "At the time Day left I was without means and was utterly unable to follow Day and meet necessary expenses, for you must understand that to apprehend an absconding criminal of Day's intelligence, who had a week's start, would be no light affair. Besides I was more interested to see that what he had stolen was replaced first than to get Day."

"The court having offered only $100 for Day's arrest, I was disappointed and handicapped. Having had to borrow some $2000 to meet demands consequent upon Day's embezzlement, I did not feel like borrowing money to expend in searching for Day, and this is all there is to that."

"And you may say," said Mr. Withers, "that I would freely give to any one, all that I shall receive as my salary these two years to be placed as I was when I left my farm to take charge of the office." [The above is the purport, if not the exact words of Mr. Withers, and will put to rest the various reports which are in circulation concerning the Henry Day affair.]

"Near Cottage Grove a prosperous farmer had trouble in getting his son out of bed mornings to do the chores. The boy had a habit of answering 'yessir,' and going to sleep again. Recently he was particularly anxious to get the young man up for important work, and to make no mistake, called the boy, got the 'yessir,' then slid upstairs, turned the covers down and gave the person there a good spanking. It happened on the night before the hired girl had been given the boy's room. When the tumult was over the old man sat down behind the barn and drafted a written apology to the girl.—Ex.
