BONNA VILLA
 By Aino Ferrington

Mrs. Don Wickler has been suffering from a severe case of LaGrippe.

Saturday night a party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shearer. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Meadows, Mr. and Mrs. Don Wickizer, and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shearer. Cards were the diversion of the evening, followed by refreshments.

One of the little Myer boys was seriously injured last Sunday when he was struck by a car as he was crossing the road at Tanner creek. The car struck him in the stomach and he was unconscious when brought home. He is now, however, well on the road to recovery.

An additional room has been built onto the Bonny Beauty Parlor, now making it a three room house.

The recent storm did much damage in this community. A large tree was blown down in Weecove between the residences of Mr. Clyde Hubbard and Dr. Floyd Dodds, tearing down the gutters on Dr. Dodd's house. Branches fell in the community and two trees were blown down across the road near Shady Nook.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Michaels left Tuesday for Colfax, Wn., where they were summoned because of the illness of Mr. Michael's mother, Mrs. J. H. Michaels.

Guests of Mr. Hal Babbitt at the Bonny Villa Tavern over the week-end, were Mr. Ralph, Mr. Goetjen, Miss Key Koile, and Miss Kay Flemming, all of Portland.

A birthday dinner was given Sunday in honor of Mr. H. V. Christensen, with the following guests present: Mr. W. R. McBroom, Master J. V. McBroom, Miss Grace Butler, Messrs. Micheal and Jim Bownes, and Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Jones and family.

Mrs. W. R. McBroom, Mrs. H. V. Christensen, and Mr. Michael Bownes enjoyed a trip to Portland last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Adamson, Mr. Joe Shank and Mrs. Ora Cook of Portland spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Moore and son Russell, on a return trip home from The Dalles where a birthday dinner had been given in honor of Mrs. Roy Adamson. Mr. Adamson is a brakeman on the daily passenger Union Pacific that comes through Bonneville. Mr. Shank, whose father is an old pioneer, is a prominent business man of Portland.

Austro-Hungarian Monarchy
 Prior to the World war the Austro-Hungarian monarchy consisted of two states, the Austrian empire and the Hungarian kingdom. The relation between them was fully regulated by the so-called compromise of 1867. According to this agreement the two states were perfectly independent of each other, each possessing its own constitution, legislature and executive departments for most branches of state affairs. There was, however, a close connection between them in the identity of the monarch, and the commonness of some important elements of state policy.

Heads to West, Feet to East, Old Burial Custom

In all early Christian cemeteries in Great Britain and northern Europe the graves were carefully orientated, the body being almost invariably laid with the feet pointing toward the east. This custom prevailed until a century or two ago, and is still widely observed. Even in the family burying grounds on the colonial estates of Maryland and Virginia the bodies usually lie with the head to the west. The custom arose from medieval legends and pagan practices. Christ, according to the legend, was buried in the sepulcher with his head to the west. Many suppose that Matthew 24:27 means that when Jesus comes in Judgment he will appear in the east. That verse reads: "For as the lightning cometh out of the east, and shineth even unto the west; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be." Bodies, therefore, were buried with the feet toward the east, to enable them on arising on the morning of resurrection to face the east and to hurry in that direction to meet the Lord. Because of this custom, the east wind is known in Wales as "the wind of the dead man's feet." Orientation of the dead, however, is older than Christianity. The pagan Franks placed their dead in the tombs with the feet to the east; and Walter Johnson, in "Byways in British Archeology," describes a cemetery at Charvaise dating back to the earliest Iron age, in which all but two or three of the more than seventy graves were so orientated that the head lay to the west end.

Deserts Are in Two Zones

Deserts, in the popular sense of the word, occur mainly in two zones encircling the world, and corresponding to regions of minimum rainfall. The more extensive extends from near the equator in an east-northeasterly direction across the whole breadth of North Africa, containing the Great Sahara, Libyan and Nubian Deserts; over the peninsula of Arabia, through Persia, Turkestan, the Gobi or Shamo desert, to about 52 degrees north latitude, to the Pacific ocean. The ring is completed by the Great Basin of North America, in 40 degrees north latitude. The southern zone, less complete, comprises the Kalahari desert, in southwest Africa; the interior of Australia, and small districts in the Argentine Republic and in the Andes.

The Appalachian Trail

The Appalachian trail, as conceived by its proponents, is a foot-path for hikers in the Appalachian mountains extending from Maine to Florida, a distance of some 2,500 miles. The trail shuns automobile roads and lowlands, the purpose being to provide access to the mountains and wild country of the Eastern highlands for tramping, camping and outdoor recreation. Its route is the crestline of the Appalachian system. With the exception of national and state parks and national forests traversed, the trail is on privately owned land with the consent of owners.

Vicious Fish Menace

One of the most dangerous of the wild creatures of South America is a fish. Strange to say the vicious piranhas, as they are called, are not ferocious looking and usually are only 18 inches long. However, they are the terror of river crossings. They are voracious meat eaters and yearly kill hundreds of cattle and horses. Since the fish travel in schools they also have been known to attack and to kill men, stripping the flesh from the body in a few moments.

Pronouncing Given Names

The pronunciation of any given name, or of any surname, is a matter for the owner of that name to decide for himself. The customary pronunciation of Joan, and the only one recognized by the dictionary, is [j] one syllable, o as in go. If the name is pronounced in two syllables, the customary spelling is [j] one syllable.—Literary Digest.
